DEATHS

Life Is But A Brief Span, A Debt That All Must Pay

FISHBACK

—John Fishback, eighty-seven years, died at the home of his son, Jesse Fishback, in this city, following a long illness, due to a complication of diseases. Mr. Fishback was a native of Nicholas county, where he resided until a year ago, when he moved to Paris to make his home with his son. He is survived by two sons, George Fishback, of Eminence, and Jesse Fishback, of Paris.

The body was taken to Carlisle, where the funeral was held Saturday afternoon at one o'clock. Services were conducted at the grave in the Carlisle Cemetery by Rev. Bela Matcalfe, of Carlisle.

QUINBY

—Following a protracted illness due to a complication of diseases, Mrs. Lucy Redmon Quinby, formerly a resident of Paris, died at an early hour Friday morning in a Lexington hospital.

Mrs. Quinby was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John T. Redmon, and was a native of this county, being born near Ruddles Mills, in 1861. At the time of her death she was in her sixty-first year.

Mrs. Quinby is survived by two children, Mrs. Roy Bashus, of Missouri, and Rodney Quinby, of Oklahoma City, and by the following following brothers and sisters: Miss Imogene Redmon, Mrs. Edward Speakes, Claude F. Redmon, George K. Redmon and King Redmon, all of this city.

The body was brought to Paris Saturday morning and taken to the home of her brother, Claude F. Redmon, on Cypress street. The funeral was held at Redmon home Sunday afternoon, with services conducted by Rev. T. S. Smylie, pastor of the Paris Presbyterian church. The interment followed in the Paris Cemetery. The pall-bearers were: Wm. Turner, Robert Turner, Chas. Leer, Green Leer, M. F. Kenney, L. D. Redmon.

LEER

—Charles Carroll Leer, aged eighty-seven, one of the best-known farmers in Bourbon county, died at his home, on the Maysville pike, near Paris, Saturday night, at eight o'clock, after a lingering illness.

Mr. Leer was a son of the late David and Cordelia Fleming Leer, pioneer citizens of Bourbon county. He was born within a mile of the site of the residence in which he died and where he had lived for over fifty years. Mr. Leer was an authority on matters connected with the history of Paris and Bourbon county, and was one of the best-posted men on general affairs that the county contained. He was noted for having a most remarkable memory, and was often consulted by parties making notes on the history of the city and county. He was a man of education and talent, and well informed in all that pertained to county, State and National events.

Mr. Leer is survived by his widow, Mrs. Adelia Ewing Leer, and one daughter, Miss Carroll Leer, and one son, Courtland Leer, both of whom reside at home.

The funeral was held at ten o'clock yesterday morning, with services conducted at the grave in the Paris Cemetery, by Rev. T. S. Smylie, pastor of the Paris Presbyterian church.

A most unusual circumstance was witnessed at the funeral, the pall-bearers, fourteen in number, were all nephews, grand-nephews and first cousins of Mr. Leer, who had expressed a wish that his remains might be carried by them to the last resting place in "the city of the dead."

Great Divide into the unknown world at eleven o'clock yesterday morning, following a long illness from the inroads of an insidious disease which had fastened upon her. In the same house in which her sister, Miss Nellie Fithian, passed away from the same cause about a week ago, the end came.

Mrs. Webb was a daughter of the late Dr. Joseph and Emily Fithian, whose high Christian character and good deeds are enshrined in the hearts of Paris people for all time. She was educated in the schools of Paris, and afterward attended other educational institutions, where she graduated with high honors. Several years ago she was married to Charles D. Webb, former Mayor and Police Judge of Paris, and city editor of THE NEWS. Mr. Webb died a few years ago. Mrs. Webb became interested in the business life of Paris, and purchased the Paris Book Company business from Mrs. W. A. Johnson, which she successfully conducted to the time her increasing illness forced her to retire from active business. At the time of her death she was fifty-eight years of age.

Mrs. Webb is the last of her family, her parents, her brother and sister having passed away. She is survived by one nephew, George White Fithian and two nieces Misses Emily and Josephine Fithian, of Paris, children of her deceased brother, Dr. Frank Fithian.

The funeral will be held at four o'clock this (Tuesday) afternoon, with services conducted at the grave in the Paris Cemetery, by Rev. T. S. Smylie, of the Paris Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. Frank J. Cheek, of Danville, her former pastor. The interment will take place on the family lot following the service. The pall-bearers: will be Newton Mitchell, Owen L. Davis, John M. Brennan, Albert Hinton, Buckner Woodford, John Woodford, James McClure, C. B. Mitchell.

HAWKINS—MORRIS

—John Morris and Miss Mary Hawkins, both of Bourbon county, secured marriage license from County Clerk Pearce Paton, and were married shortly after by County Judge George Batterton, in his office in the court house. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Dane Morris and the bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Hawkins, of near Paris.

WILL PROBATED

The last will and testament of the late George R. Bell, was admitted to probate in the County Court by County Judge George Batterton. Duncan Bell, only son of the deceased, qualified as executor of the estate, by furnishing bond in the sum of $2,500, no security being required.

DESERVING DEMOCRATS — CLASS A1.

The editor of THE BOURBON NEWS is going to let Richard Linthicum, Director of Publicity of the Democratic National Committee, write this editorial:

The term "deserving Democrat" is one that can be applied with greater truthfulness and greater justice to editors of Democratic newspapers than perhaps to any other element in the Democratic party. This can be said without disparagement of any other Democrats, because the party is largely made up of men and women who deserve well, not only at the hands of their party, but at the hands of the public as well. But the Democratic editor can be fairly put in class A1.

In politics, as in war, it is the boy in the front-line trench that wins our admiration and our gratitude, because when he fails all fail. The Democratic editor is a first-line trench man all the time. He is al ways in closest and most frequent contact with "the enemy." He is the first to see a sign of weakness in the opposite trenches and to take advantage of it. In a charge he constitutes the front rank.

Whether his paper be a daily or a weekly he is always on duty. In defeat he is the first to feel the bad effect; in victory he is the first one "over the top," but he does not always share a just reward, but he should be among the very first.

Every Democrat owes a duty to his party, and that duty is only partly performed when he or she votes the Democratic ticket. There are long periods between elections when many Democrats give little or no thought to the men in the first-trenches. Unless these are supported and loyally supported, chances of victory are minimized. Support of the organization—and by organization we mean National, State, county and precinct—and support of the Democratic press is not only the duty of all Democrats, but it is a duty that practically every Democrat can perform without hardship.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars are wasted in campaigns by candidates and party committees because they do not know how to spend it to the best advantage. If Democratic candidates and committees would consult with the local Democratic editors, these sums could be expended in the most legitimate and effective way. With proper co-operation between candidates, committees and local editors the maximum results only can be obtained. There is no danger that the Democratic press will be or can be Newberryized, because such methods are repugnant to Democratic organizations and candidates, and the Democratic press itself is intellectually and otherwise honest.
